EXEMPTION

Application No. A113/2007

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995, by Young Men's Christian Association of Victoria Inc. for exemption from sections 42, 59, 60, 65, 100 and 195 of that Act. The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to engage in the specified conduct.

In this exemption, "specified conduct" means any of the following –

- a) to ask a prospective member of its health and fitness services or centres to complete the pre-activity health screening process described in paragraph (c) and to refuse or defer his or her application for membership until he or she does so;

- b) to refuse or defer participation by a member of the applicant's health and fitness services or centres in a professionally guided exercise program run by the applicant until the member completes the pre-activity health screening process described in paragraph (c);
- c) the pre-activity health screening process comprises the following –
- i. completion of a Pre-Activity Readiness Questionnaire (PARQ) by the person seeking to participate in the exercise program;
 - ii. if the applicant's health and fitness instructor notes that the person's score on the PARQ is 'high risk', that instructor will give to the person a letter which the person is then to give to his or her doctor. That letter asks for information from the doctor as to medications which the person is taking, risk factors which may impact on any exercise program which the person may undertake, and recommendations as to any such exercise program;
 - iii. the person's participation in any exercise program will depend on whether that doctor gives medical clearance and, if that doctor does, the program will be tailored to give effect to that doctor's recommendations;
 - iv. an exercise program will not be provided to the person if the person's doctor does not give medical clearance for that program, or the person does not wish to give the applicant's letter to his or her doctor, or the person does not wish to complete a PARQ.
- d) to advertise these matters.

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application and on hearing submissions from Ms Casey-Eland, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 42, 59, 60, 65, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the specified conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant conducts professionally guided exercise programs for its members, through a large number of centres and branches operated by it.

- The applicant wishes to adopt a pre-exercise health screening procedure which will ensure that those who participate in its professionally guided exercise programs can do so without risk to their health.
- The applicant has discussed the PARQ health screening process at senior management level and with its health and fitness coordinators, and has consulted medical practitioners, and that process has been supported.
- Similar health screening processes are implemented in the United States and by other managers of recreational and leisure facilities in Victoria. Those health screening processes are recognised as appropriate internationally by such organisations as the American Heart Association and the American College of Sports Medicine.
- The PARQ is designed to identify people with risk factors (such as pre-existing medical conditions, cardio-vascular programs or pulmonary problems) that might make intense or vigorous exercise dangerous to their health, and to ensure that these people consult their doctor before the applicant provides them with these programs.
- The applicant does not propose to prevent such people using their fitness equipment on a self-guided basis.
- The applicant's exercise programs are aimed to improve the fitness of those who undertake them – an important aim in a community in which many people are engaged in sedentary occupations.
- The applicant has in place emergency procedures (such as staff qualified in first aid and links with the ambulance service) that will apply if a participant in one of the exercise programs or a user of its fitness equipment becomes ill.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the applicant from the operation of sections 42, 59, 60, 65, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the applicant to engage in the specified conduct

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 13 June 2010.

Dated 7 June 2007

Deputy President

EXEMPTION

Application No. A156/2007

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to Section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 by Shane Charles, c/- The Board of Directors for the proposed Incorporated Gummeril Aboriginal Health Service. The application for exemption is to enable only individuals who identify as Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander to be eligible as voting members of the Company Limited by Guarantee. Similarly, exemption is sought so that only voting members who identify as Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander descent will be able to hold Directorship positions.

Upon reading the material submitted in support of the application, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the Applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The eligibility requirements for membership and Directorship of the Company Limited by Guarantee will be written into the Rules of the Constitution.
- This will then enable the establishment of an Aboriginal Health Service that will be governed by a Board comprised of individuals of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander descent, and whose members will be individuals of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander descent.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption to the Applicant from the operation of Sections 13, 100 and 195 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 to enable the Applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 1 June 2010.

Dated 1 June 2007.

3. Period of validity

This classification commences on 1 July 2007 and is effective until revoked or varied by the EPA.

4. Hazard classification

Ceramic-based fibres that have been managed in accordance with the conditions of this classification (as set out in Section 5 below) are classified as Category C prescribed industrial waste.

5. Conditions of classification

Ceramic-based fibres are only classified as Category C wastes if all of the following conditions have been met.

- 5.1. Ceramic-based fibres destined for landfill must be packaged in accordance with EPA Publication 364, The Transport and Disposal of Waste Asbestos, 2007 (as amended from time to time).

INDUSTRIAL WASTE MANAGEMENT POLICY
(PRESCRIBED INDUSTRIAL WASTE)

Prescribed Industrial Waste – Classification by Hazard for Absorbent Materials

Pursuant to clause 11(1) of the Industrial waste management policy (Prescribed Industrial Waste) and in accordance with the criteria presented in Schedule 1 of that policy, the Environment Protection Authority (EPA) hereby classifies the prescribed industrial wastes specified in Section 2 below based on the hazard posed by the waste to human health and the environment.

1. Classification number

2007/003

2. Prescribed industrial waste to which this classification applies

2.1 This classification only applies to absorbent materials contaminated with the following prescribed industrial wastes (referred to herein as “contaminated absorbent materials”):

- solvent and oil (C6-C36 petroleum hydrocarbons, synthetic and natural oils), inks, dyes, pigments, paints, lacquers and varnish.

2.2 Absorbent materials include cellulose, natural fibre, synthetic and mineral materials such as rags, wipes, booms, matting and other spill control products.

2.3 Contaminated absorbent materials containing any other contaminants must be assessed in accordance with the EPA Publication 996, Guidelines for Hazard Classification of Solid Prescribed Industrial Wastes, 2005 (as amended from time to time).

3. Period of validity

This classification commences on 1 July 2007 and is effective until revoked or varied by the EPA.

4. Hazard classification

Contaminated absorbent materials that have been managed in accordance with the conditions of this classification (as set out in Section 5 below) are classified as Category C prescribed industrial waste.

5. Conditions of classification

Contaminated absorbent materials are only classified as Category C wastes if all of the following conditions have been met.

6.2 Waste generators should determine the waste type to be specified on the waste transport certificate based on the prescribed waste contaminant on the contaminated absorbent materials. For example, for contaminated absorbent materials containing solvent-based wastes (flash point >60.5°C, closed-cup test or flash point >65.6°C open-cup test – combustible) from the production, formulation and use of inks, dyes, pigments, paints, lacquers and varnish (not otherwise specified), waste type F120 applies.

For a list of waste types, refer to EPA Publication 395, Instructions for Completion of Waste Transport Certificates, 2007 (as amended from time to time).

Prescribed Industrial Waste – Classification by Hazard for Packaging Waste

Pursuant to clause 11(1) of the Industrial waste management policy (Prescribed Industrial Waste) and in accordance with the criteria presented in Schedule 1 of that policy, the Environment Protection Authority (EPA) hereby classifies the prescribed industrial wastes specified in Section 2 below based on the hazard posed by the waste to human health and the environment.

1. Classification number

2007/004

2. Prescribed industrial waste to which this classification applies

- 2.1 This classification applies to the following prescribed industrial wastes (referred to herein as “packaging wastes”):

- packaging wastes with residues of prescribed industrial waste (i.e. trace amounts of original product remaining in packaging after emptying). Prescribed industrial wastes are those wastes prescribed in Schedule 1, Part B of the Environment Protection (Prescribed Waste) Regulations 1998.

- 2.2 Packaging wastes include, but are not limited to, containers, cans, bottles, tins, bags, bulk bags, internal liners and bladders.

Note: This classification does not apply to:

- a) rigid steel or plastic containers with an original volume greater than or equal to 200 litres, contaminated with prescribed industrial waste (these wastes are prohibited from disposal to landfill and must be reused or recycled in accordance with EPA Publication 1100, Classification for Large Containers contaminated with Prescribed Industrial Wastes 2007) (as amended from time to time); and
- b) used oil filters (these wastes are prohibited from disposal to landfill and must be reused or recycled in accordance with EPA Publication 1102, Classification for Used Oil Filters 2007) (as amended from time to time).

3. Period of validity

This classification commences on 1 July 2007 and is effective until revoked or varied by the EPA.

4. Hazard classification

Packaging wastes that have been managed in accordance with the conditions of this classification (as set out in Section 5 below) are classified as Category C prescribed industrial waste.

5. Conditions of classification

Packaging wastes are only classified as Category C waste if all of the following conditions have been met.

- 5.1. All packaging must be drained to be free of liquids prior to disposal.
- 5.2. Packaging wastes must have no more than a residue of prescribed industrial waste (i.e. trace amounts of original product remaining in packaging after emptying). Prescribed industrial wastes that are greater than a residue in the packaging must be assessed to determine the hazard category of the waste itself. This should be carried out in accordance with EPA Publication 996, Guidelines for Hazard Classification of Solid Prescribed Industrial Wastes, 2005 (as amended from time to time); or for contaminated soils, EPA Publication 448, Classification of Wastes, 2007 (as amended from time to time).
- 5.3. Packaging wastes must be managed in compliance with all EPA licence conditions of the facility that receives the waste.

6. Notes

- 6.1. Packaging wastes that comply with all of the conditions of this Classification may only be accepted at landfills licensed by EPA to accept the following Category C waste types:
 - N100 – Prescribed industrial waste residues in rigid steel or plastic containers with an original volume less than 200 litres (hazardous substance to be specified);
 - N110 – Prescribed industrial waste residues in containers or bags (not otherwise specified) (hazardous substance to be specified).
- 6.2. This classification may be amended or revoked by the EPA by way of written notice in the Victoria Government Gazette. Current classifications can be found on EPA's website at www.epa.vic.gov.au

4. Hazard classification

Animal effluent and residues that have been managed in accordance with the conditions of this classification (as set out in Section 5 below) are classified as Category C prescribed industrial wastes.

5. Conditions of classification
