Subordinate Legislation Act 1994*NOTICE OF PREPARATION OF REGULATORY IMPACT STATEMENT*Liquor Control Reform (Amendment)*Regulations 2008

Notice is given in accordance with section 11 of the Subordinate Legislation Act 1994 that a Regulatory Impact Statement (RIS) has been prepared for the proposed Liquor Control Reform (Amendment) Regulations 2008.

The proposed regulations are to be made under the Liquor Control Reform Act 1998. The proposed regulations prescribe minimum performance standards for surveillance equipment in 'high risk' licensed premises that trade after 1.00 am and have live or amplified music. The RIS also considers alternative options for improving the quality of surveillance systems in 'high risk' premises and compares these alternatives with the proposed regulations. The RIS concludes that the proposed regulations are preferable to the alternatives when qualitatively compared on the basis of their likely costs, fairness/reasonableness, enforceability and effectiveness. The RIS also concludes that while the costs of the proposed regulations are substantial, they are not incommensurate with the costs arising from the problem of poor quality surveillance systems. Better quality surveillance is expected to discourage potential offenders in 'high risk' premises and thus contribute to reducing crime.

Copies of the RIS and the proposed Regulations may be obtained by: visiting the internet at <http://www.consumer.vic.gov.au>; or telephoning Consumer Affairs Victoria on (03) 8684 6484; or collection from the Victorian Consumer and Business Centre, 113 Exhibition Street, Melbourne between 8.30 am and 5.00 pm weekdays.

The purpose of this notice is to invite public comments on the RIS and the proposed Regulations. All comments must be in writing, be marked 'Security Cameras RIS' and received at the following addresses by no later than 5.00 pm on Friday 4 July 2008.

Post: Security Cameras RIS, Consumer Policy and Programs Branch, Consumer Affairs Victoria, GPO Box 123, Melbourne, Vic. 3001.

Introduction

The Guide to the Evaluation of Psychiatric Impairment for Clinicians (GEPIC) is a revision of the Clinical Guidelines to the Rating of Psychiatric Impairment (Clinical Guidelines), which has been in use for seven years. In general the Clinical Guidelines has performed very well but some concerns have emerged that this revision intends to correct.

The name has been changed to distinguish the new edition from its predecessor, and to provide a convenient acronym. The basic aim of the Clinical Guidelines remains, being to improve the inter-rater reliability of psychiatric impairment assessments.

It has been made explicit that the descriptors associated with each class for a particular mental function are intended to be indicative examples of the type of symptoms one could expect to see in that class range. The list of descriptors is not intended to be all-encompassing, as the Guide is designed to be used only by qualified psychiatrists who have completed the prescribed training course. To provide an exhaustive list of descriptors would be an impossible and ultimately unnecessary task. Furthermore, such a document would be so voluminous as to be practically useless as a handy guide for the clinician, and would amount to a textbook of psychiatry.

There has been some re-wording of the definitions of some mental functions, and some descriptors have been added to provide a more comprehensive range of examples for each class. The changes implemented in this revision are designed to further improve the inter-rater reliability of the GEPIC.

The Clinical Guidelines were developed from the User's Manual to the second edition of the American Medical Association's Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment, which was prepared by the authors with the assistance of other members of the Psychiatric section of the Victorian WorkCover Medical Panel in 1994.

There had been considerable concern about the lack of reliability of impairment assessment by psychiatrists using the second edition of the AMA Guides. The User's Manual was an attempt to provide definitions of the terms which were used in the second edition, with an explanation of the various changes that would be observed with increasing levels of impairment. In addition, the User's Manual developed a method, now known as the 'median method', to determine whole person impairment.

The User's Manual had no official status but was widely used for assessment of psychiatric impairment. The User's Manual had considerable impact in improving the inter-rater reliability of assessments.

The changeover in various legal jurisdictions from the second to the fourth edition of the AMA Guides proved to be a particular concern with regard to psychiatry. Chapter 14 of the fourth edition of the AMA Guides provides a classification which is impossible to quantify, and it fails to provide any method of maintaining reliability of assessments.

It was with these concerns in mind that the authors of the User's Manual further refined and developed the Clinical Guidelines to the Rating of Psychiatric Impairment, with the assistance of other members of the Psychiatric Medical Panel.

The GEPIC maintains the principles found in both the User's Manual and the Clinical Guidelines. The six terms which had originally been used to assess mental function, that is, Intelligence, Thinking, Perception, Judgement, Affect, and Behaviour, have remained substantially the same. (The Clinical Guidelines replaced 'Affect', which was technically an inaccurate term, with the word 'Mood'.)

The final two items in the Table which was adapted from the second edition of the AMA Guides, that is, 'Ability' (in terms of 'Activities of Daily Living') and 'Potential' (in terms of 'Rehabilitation or Treatment Potential') were removed in the Clinical Guidelines, as it was considered that they do not reflect impairment. ('Ability' is a measure of disability rather than impairment, and 'potential' involves a prediction of the future, which is problematical at best, and not a measure of current psychiatric impairment.)

The table in the Clinical Guidelines included a footnote: In evaluating the ‘whole person psychiatric impairment’, intermediate values may be used that are not included in the individual classes.

This footnote has been removed from the GEPIC as it undermined the intention of the authors to force assessors to make clear choices in determining both individual classes and whole person psychiatric impairment.

As with the Clinical Guidelines, the GEPIC must be considered in the context of the fourth edition of the AMA Guides, and any explanatory or other information provided in that edition of the AMA Guides is applicable to the Clinical Guidelines and to the GEPIC.

Psychiatric Impairment Evaluation

The assessment of psychiatric impairment is based on the systematic application of empirical criteria, and takes into consideration both the diagnosis and other factors unique to the individual. It is also relevant to consider motivation, and to review the history of the illness, as well as the treatment and rehabilitation methods. These considerations can be summarised in the following five principles:

Principle 1:

In assessing the impairment that results from any mental or physical disorder, readily observable empirical criteria must be applied accurately. The mental state examination, as used by consultant psychiatrists, is the prime method of evaluating psychiatric impairment.

Principle 2:

Diagnosis is among the factors to be considered in assessing the severity and possible duration of the impairment, but is by no means the sole criterion.

Principle 3:

The evaluation of psychiatric impairment requires that consideration be also given to a number of other factors including, but not limited to, level of functioning, educational, financial, social and family situation.

Principle 4:

The underlying character and value system of the individual is of considerable importance in the outcome of the disorder, be it mental or physical. Motivation for improvement is a key factor in the outcome.

Principle 5:

A careful review must be made of the treatment and rehabilitation methods that have been applied or are being used. No final judgement can be made until the whole history of the illness, the treatment, the rehabilitation phase, and the individual’s current mental and physical status and behaviour have been considered.

Use of the Guide

The presence and extent of impairment is a medical issue, and is assessed by medical means. This Guide has been designed for use by medical practitioners; in evaluating psychiatric impairment in accordance with this Guide clinical information has to be obtained and assessed, together with an examination of the individual’s mental state.

The evaluation of psychiatric impairment in accordance with the Guide is meant to be informed by clinical judgement, based on appropriate training and experience, and the specific rating criteria are not meant to be used in a ‘cookbook’ fashion.

The descriptors associated with particular classes for each mental function are intended to be indicative only. They are intended to provide an overview of the type and severity of symptoms expected for each particular class. It would be futile to attempt to list all relevant symptoms and would be onerous for the assessor. The absence of a particular symptom in the list of descriptors does not mean that that symptom is to be disregarded. The assessor may be required to justify why that/those symptom(s) is/are associated with a particular class of severity.

It is ultimately for the clinician, and no one else, to make the clinical judgement whether a specific rating criterion is present. If the clinician doubts that a particular symptom or abnormality of mental function is present, even after hearing the patient describe it, the item should be rated as not present. This convention is advocated in the Structured Clinical Interview for DSM-IV Axis I Disorders, and it is important to emphasise that the evaluation of psychiatric impairment, like diagnosis, is based on 'ratings of criterion items, not of answers to questions'.

The method described in this Guide involves the assessment of the severity of six specific mental functions into five classes of increasing severity. The different classes are combined to produce a total psychiatric impairment. Use is made of a modified form of the table that was in the second edition of the AMA Guides.

Impairment of Perception

According to Sims, 'There can be few areas where the work of assessment by the psychiatrist is more misunderstood than in the psychopathology of perception'.

In clinical psychiatry, impairments of perception are disturbances of one or more of the five sensory modalities (hearing, vision, smell, taste and touch). Possible disturbances of perception that need to be assessed as part of the mental state examination are hallucinations and illusions. Hallucinations are subjective sensory perceptions in the absence of an actual external stimulus; these may occur in any one of the five sensory modalities. Illusions are defined as distorted perceptions of real external stimuli, usually visual. Where the person indicates an awareness that hallucinations are imaginary (not real, lacking an external source or stimulus) the term pseudohallucinations is used.

The concept of perception in clinical psychiatry is narrower than the definition of perception in the Concise Oxford Dictionary, which reads 'the intuitive recognition of a truth, aesthetic quality, etc...'. Thus, phrases such as 'a sudden perception of the true position' or 'he perceives the world to be a very fearful place' do not refer to perception in the technical sense in which the term is used in clinical psychiatry.

Definitions

The assessor must be mindful that in some jurisdictions an evaluation of impairment needs to be made according to the methods specified in this Guide after a period of time when the claimant's entitlement to certain statutory benefits needs to be determined, and at a time when the impairment may not be permanent.

In developing this Guide, the authors made use of the following definitions:

Impairment: The World Health Organization has defined impairment in the following terms: 'In the context of health experience, an impairment is any loss or abnormality of psychological, physiological, or anatomical structure or function'.

Permanent impairment is impairment that has become static or well stabilised with or without medical treatment and is not likely to remit despite future medical treatment. If an impairment is not permanent, it is inappropriate to characterise it as such.

Disability: The World Health Organization has defined disability in the following terms: 'In the context of health experience, a disability is any restriction or lack (resulting from an impairment) of ability to perform an activity in the manner or within the range considered normal for a human being'.

Possibility. Probability: These are terms that refer to the likelihood or chance that an injury or illness was caused or aggravated by a particular factor. 'Possibility' sometimes is used to imply a likelihood of less than 50 per cent; 'probability' sometimes is used to imply a likelihood of greater than 50 per cent.

Hallucinations. Abnormalities of sensory perception in the absence of external stimuli.

Illusions. Distortions of real sensory stimuli – illusions can be a normal phenomenon as well as indicating psychopathology.

Pseudohallucinations. Hallucinations that are recognised by the person as being imaginary (not real, lacking an external source or stimulus).

Whole person psychiatric impairment

The second edition of the American Medical Association's Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment stated that 'the overall rating of a patient [is] based upon the mental status and upon the current condition as observed by the evaluator. The rating is based upon observed attributes and phenomena that are somewhat interrelated, and it necessarily must be considered to be somewhat subjective'.

In developing the Clinical Guidelines, and also in the current revision, the authors have taken this comment into consideration.

It remains our considered view that the 'median method' is the most appropriate and fairest of the three statistical methods available by which the overall level of the whole person psychiatric impairment can be calculated, based on each of the six items reflecting mental functions. The three methods are the 'mean' (or average), the 'median', and the 'mode'. The advantage of using the median is that it is not influenced by extreme scores (as is the 'mean' or averaging method), yet it is significantly more sensitive to variability of scores than the mode, especially with the modification implemented in this Guide.

Because each of the six aspects of mental functioning that constitute the Guide is rated on what is essentially an ordinal scale, the median method is technically the most appropriate method of determining the overall rating.

For that reason, the determination of the 'class' of the overall collective whole person psychiatric impairment assessed in accordance with this Guide is to be undertaken in accordance with the median method. The median is the middle number of a series; a typical result of scores for the six individual aspects of mental function may be 112233, and thus the middle number is 2. 'Class 2' is therefore the correct class for the 'whole person psychiatric impairment' in this example.

The overall collective percentage impairment is within the percentage range of the median class. The final figure is determined by taking into account the person's level of functioning, on the basis of clinical judgement.

Each median class includes descriptors which indicate a range of symptoms within that class. Each class has a low range, a mid range, and a high range.

The indicative ranges for each class are as follows:

	Low range	Mid range	High range
Class One	0–1%	2–3%	4–5%
Class Two	10–12%	14–16%	18–20%
Class Three	25–30%	35–40%	45–50%
Class Four	55–60%	65–70%	70–75%
Class Five	75–80%	85–90%	95–100%

In coming to the final rating of the whole person psychiatric impairment the assessor should consider the range of descriptors and/or equivalent symptoms that emerged during the interview, as well as the findings on mental state examination.

The assessor should consider both the descriptors for each class and equivalent symptoms that might not be listed amongst the descriptors. The assessor should assess the severity of each symptom or descriptor and/or the number of symptoms or descriptors present. As a result of this clinical assessment the assessor should use clinical judgment to determine where the final figure lies.

The assessor should consider in which part of the median class these descriptors and/or equivalent symptoms would fall, e.g. if the individual assessed has symptoms which lie within median class 2, and these symptoms were relatively minimal in severity or there were only a few symptoms, this indicates a final value in the low range for class 2 (10–12%). If the descriptors and/or equivalent symptoms were more numerous and/or more severe the final value is likely to be mid range (14–16%). If the individual has most of the descriptors and/or equivalent symptoms for median class 2 or fewer but more severe descriptors and/or equivalent symptoms, the final value would be in the upper range (18–20%). These indicative ranges are to provide guidance to clinicians and do not preclude the use of final values lying between them, e.g. 13%.

It may be the case that the median of a series is not a whole number, e.g. 111233: the median of this series is 1.5; similarly, a series such as 222334 has a median of 2.5. There are problems of legality, equity and simplicity with a number of proposed solutions to this dilemma.

When the Clinical Guidelines were developed, the Medical Panel considered that an appropriate and simple solution is to promote the median figure to the next highest class and allow, except in unusual circumstances, only the lowest percentage in that class. This practice should also be followed when using this revised Guide.

Using the examples given therefore:

- Series 111233, median 1.5 becomes 2, and therefore the whole person psychiatric impairment is
10 per cent ('Class 2' range 10–20 per cent);
- Series 222334, median 2.5 becomes 3, and therefore the whole person psychiatric impairment is
25 per cent ('Class 3' range 25–30 per cent).

If the distribution of scores is skewed, with four or more scores in the 'Class 1' range and one or two higher scores, the highest possible 'whole person' psychiatric impairment rating is ten (10) per cent.

INTELLIGENCE

Capacity for understanding and for other forms of adaptive behaviour. Impairments of intelligence are a consequence of brain injury or disease. Generally, before impairment of intelligence is confirmed neuropsychological assessment should be undertaken. (Care has to be exercised to ensure that there is no overlap between an assessment of impairment of intelligence made during a psychiatric evaluation and an assessment of impairment of higher cerebral functions made by an assessor in accordance with Chapter 4 of the 4th edition of the American Medical Associations Guides.)

Guides for the rating of impairment of intelligence:

Class	Impairment	Description
1	0–5%	Normal to Slight – there is no evidence of cognitive impairment on mental state examination, and the individual does not report any difficulties in everyday functioning that can be attributed to cognitive difficulties.
2	10–20%	Mild – some interference with everyday functioning.
3	25–50%	Moderate – a reduction in intelligence that significantly interferes with everyday functioning.
4	55–75%	Moderately Severe – a reduction in intelligence which makes independent living impossible.
5	over 75%	Severe – needs constant supervision and care.

THINKING

The ability to form thoughts and conceptualise. Impairment is both a matter of degree and type of disturbance, which may involve stream, form and content.

Guides for the rating of impairment of thinking:

Class	Impairment	Description
1	0–5%	Normal to Slight – includes mild transient disturbances that are not disruptive and are not noticed by others.
2	10–20%	Mild – mild symptoms that usually cause subjective distress, for example: thinking may be muddled or slow; may be unable to think clearly; mild disruption of the stream of thought due to some forgetfulness or diminished concentration; may have some obsessional thinking which is mildly disruptive; may be preoccupied with distressing fears, worries or experiences, and by inability to stop ruminating; an increased sense of self-awareness or a persistent sense of guilt; some other thought disorder that is minimally disruptive, such as overvalued ideas or delusions; some formal thought disorder that does not interfere with effective communication.
3	25–50%	Moderate – manifestations of thought disorder, to the extent that most clinicians would consider psychiatric treatment indicated, for example: severe problems with concentration due to intrusive thoughts or obsessional ruminations; marked disruption of the stream of thought due to significant memory problems or diminished concentration; persistent delusional ideas interfering with capacity to cope with everyday activities, e.g. severe pathological guilt; formal thought disorder that interferes with verbal and other forms of communication.
4	55–75%	Moderately Severe – disorders of thinking that cause difficulty in functioning independently and usually require some external assistance.
5	Over 75%	Severe – disorders of thinking that cause such a severe disturbance that independent living is impossible.

PERCEPTION

The individual's interpretation of internal and external experience received through the senses. Stimuli arise from the five senses – the form is relevant, not necessarily the content. (Refer to discussion above of the concept of perception in clinical psychiatry.)

Definitions:

Hallucinations	Abnormalities of sensory perception in the absence of external stimuli.
Illusions	Distortions of real sensory stimuli – illusions can be a normal phenomenon as well as indicating psychopathology.
Pseudohallucinations	Hallucinations that are recognised by the person as being imaginary (not real, lacking an external source or stimulus).

Guides for the rating of impairment of perception:

Class	Impairment	Description
1	0–5%	Normal to Slight – transient heightened, dulled or blunted perceptions of the internal and external world, but with no or little interference with function.
2	10–20%	Mild – persistent heightened, dulled or blunted perceptions of the internal and external world, with mild but noticeable interference with function; – pseudohallucinations.
3	25–50%	Moderate – presence of hallucinations (other than hypnagogic or hypnopompic) that cannot be attributed to a transitory drug-induced state; – obvious illusions (when associated with a diagnosable mental disorder).
4	55–75%	Moderately Severe – hallucinations and/or illusions (as above) cause subjective distress and disturbed behaviour.
5	Over 75%	Severe – hallucinations and/or illusions (as above) cause disturbed behaviour to the extent that constant supervision is required.

JUDGEMENT

Ability to evaluate and assess information and situations, together with the ability to formulate appropriate conclusions and decisions. This mental function may be impaired due to brain injury, or to conditions such as schizophrenia, major depression, anxiety, dissociative states or other mental disorders.

Guides for the rating of impairment of judgement:

Class	Impairment	Description
1	0–5%	Normal to Slight – may lack some insight and misconstrue situations but with little interference with function.
2	10–20%	Mild – persistently misjudges situations in relationships, occupational settings, driving and with finances. The misjudgements are noticed by others but are accommodated.
3	25–50%	Moderate – misjudging social, work and family situations repeatedly leading to some disruption in relationships, occupational settings, living circumstances and financial reliability; – inappropriate spending of money or gambling.
4	55–75%	Moderately Severe – moderately severe misjudgement with regular failure to evaluate situations or implications, causing actual risk or harm to self or others; – failure to respond to any regular guidance and requirement for constant supervision.
5	Over 75%	Severe – persistently assaultive due to misinterpretation of the behaviour or motives of others; – sexually disinhibited (may occur following a head injury).

MOOD

Mood is a pervasive lasting emotional state. Affect is the prevailing and conscious emotional feeling during the period of the mental state examination.

Affect observed during the mental state examination is a reflection of the subject's mood, and has a number features, including:

Range	Variability of emotional expression over a period of time, i.e. if only one mood is expressed over a period of time, the affective range is restricted.
Amplitude:	Amount of energy expended in expressing a mood, i.e. a mild amplitude of anger is manifested by annoyance and irritability.
Stability:	Slow shifts of mood are normal. Rapid shifts (affective lability) may be pathological.
Appropriateness:	The 'fit' (or congruency) between the affect and the situation.
Quality of Affect:	Suspicious, sad, happy, anxious, angry, apathetic.
Relatedness:	Ability to express warmth, to interact emotionally and to establish rapport.

Guides for the rating of impairment of mood:

Class	Impairment	Description
1	0–5%	Normal to Slight – relatively transient expressions of sadness, happiness, anxiety, anger and apathy; – normal variation of mood associated with upsetting life events.
2	10–20%	Mild – mild symptoms: some or all of the below mild depression; subjective distress leading to some mild interference with function; reduced interest in usual activities; some days off; reduced social activities; fleeting suicidal thoughts; some panic attacks; heightened mood; – may experience feelings of derealisation or depersonalisation.
3	25–50%	Moderate Impairment – moderate symptoms: some or all of the below frequent anxiety attacks with somatic concomitants; inappropriate self-blame and/or guilt; persistent suicidal ideation or suicide attempts; marked lability of affect; significant lethargy; social withdrawal leading to major problems in interpersonal relationships; anhedonia; appetite disturbance with significant weight change; psychomotor retardation/agitation; hypomania; – severe depersonalisation.

BEHAVIOUR

Behaviour is one's manner of acting. It is considered with regard to its appropriateness in the overall situation. Disturbances vary in kind and degree. Behaviour may be destructive either to self and/or others, it may lead to withdrawal and isolation. Behaviour may be odd or eccentric. Particular mental disorders may be manifested by particular forms of behaviour, e.g. compulsive rituals associated with Obsessive Compulsive Disorder.

5	Over 75%	Severe <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– requiring constant supervision to prevent harming self or others (repeated suicide attempts, frequently violent, manic excitement);</li> <li>– catatonic excitement or rigidity;</li> <li>– incessant rituals or compulsive behaviour preventing goal-directed activity.</li> </ul>
