OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY REGULATIONS 2007

Notice of Exemption under Regulations 7.2.1 and 7.2.11

Preamble

It has been brought to the attention of occupational health and safety (OHS) regulators around the country, including WorkSafe Victoria, that the definition of ‘asbestos’ in the various pieces of legislation governing OHS may inadvertently include minerals that were not intended to be covered. Some minerals can exist in both an asbestos (or asbestiform) and non-asbestos form. It was not intended to cover mineral silicates that do not possess asbestiform morphology<sup>1</sup> as these are not considered to be asbestos and current scientific knowledge suggests these minerals do not pose the same health risks as minerals possessing an asbestiform morphology. This inadvertent inclusion of non-asbestiform minerals means significant cargoes of imported goods, such as stone tiles and other decorative rocks, are being seized by the Australian Customs and Border Protection Service.

Accordingly, regulators in each state and territory have agreed to amend their relevant asbestos regulations to exclude non-asbestiform minerals. In Victoria, 'asbestos' is defined in regulation 1.1.5 of the Occupational Health and Safety Regulations 2007 (the OHS Regulations) and WorkSafe intends amending that provision in due course but in the interim has granted this exemption under regulation 7.2.1(2) of the OHS Regulations.

WorkSafe reminds duty holders of their general obligations under, among other provisions, section 21 of the Occupational Health and Safety Act 2004 and confirms that if products contain both non-asbestiform mineral silicates and 'hazardous substances' (as defined in regulation 1.1.5 of the OHS Regulations, for example, crystalline silica), those combined substances are considered to be 'hazardous substances' and Part 4.1 (Hazardous Substances) of those regulations must be complied with.

Exempted substances

The following substances have been granted an exemption from the operation of Part 4.3 (Asbestos) of the OHS Regulations 2007, subject to the below condition –

Mineral silicates set out in the definition of 'asbestos' in regulation 1.1.5 of the OHS Regulations, which do not possess asbestiform morphology.

Condition

This exemption was granted on the condition that persons using the exempted substances (including those otherwise bound by the provisions of Part 4.3 such as employers and the self-employed) implement, so far as is reasonably practicable, control measures to minimise the generation of airborne, inhalable dust or particulates resulting from such use.<sup>2</sup>

Confirmation

Under regulation 7.2.4, WorkSafe must not grant an exemption unless it is satisfied that the granting of the exemption, with any associated conditions, will result in a level of health and safety that is at least equivalent to that which would be achieved by observance of the requirements set out in Part 4.3 (Asbestos) of the OHS Regulations in relation to the exempted substances. WorkSafe confirms it has this level of satisfaction.

Commencement and expiry

The exemption commenced on the day it was published in the Government Gazette and expires on the earlier of the day the definition of 'asbestos' in regulation 1.1.5 is amended or the OHS Regulations are revoked.

GREG TWEEDLY
Chief Executive
WorkSafe Victoria

- 1 Note that Clause 4.1 (Asbestos) of the Australian Standard AS 4964-2004 Method for the qualitative identification of asbestos in bulk samples provides an authoritative description of asbestiform morphology.
- 2 A useful guide to minimising dust exposure from the use of non-asbestiform minerals, such as stone tiles and other decorative stones and pebbles, can be found in the WorkSafe Guidance Note Working with stone, published on WorkSafe's website in June 2010.
