EXEMPTION

Application No. A126/2011

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 83 of the Equal Opportunity Act 1995 (the Act) by Elizabeth Hoffman House (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to:

- enable the applicant to only offer membership of the organisation to women of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander descent;
- advertise for and employ only women within the applicant organisation and, in some roles, give preference to women applicants of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander descent; and
- provide services, including accommodation, only to women of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander descent or to women who are not of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander descent but who have children of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander descent; together ‘the exempt conduct’.

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Angela Palmer, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 13, 42, 49, 50, 59, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant provides a high security refuge which offers safe and secure crisis accommodation to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women and children experiencing domestic violence. It is an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women’s organisation run by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women or women who are mothers of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander children. The applicant seeks to offer services which have a sound understanding of the cultural aspects of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women, their families, communities and economic circumstances.

- Within the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community, family violence extends to spousal abuse, child abuse and elder abuse and covers a diverse range of reciprocal kinship relationships of obligation and support, including aunts, cousins and children from previous relationships. Many instances of family violence go unreported, however, research indicates that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women suffer family violence at significantly higher rates than other Australians do. Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women are reluctant to access mainstream services as they are not usually trusting of non-Aboriginal people.
- The applicant is funded by the Department of Human Services to provide services to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women and women with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander children only. This is due in part to the fact that consultations with the Victorian Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community has shown that a specialised service is required.
- Two previous exemptions have been granted regarding membership of the applicant being offered to women of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander descent only (A92/2006 and A368/2006). Male membership may compromise the safety of women and children.
- A previous exemption has been granted in relation to advertising and employing female Aboriginal staff only (A375/2003). The applicant seeks to employ only women and, where there are Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander women applicants available who are appropriately qualified, to give preference to those applicants. This will allow it to ensure that its services are offered by appropriately qualified women who can best relate to the applicant’s clients.

- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of non-Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander persons who would wish to be members of the applicant, be employed by it or access its services. I am satisfied that the exemption is a measure taken for the purpose of assisting or advancing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people who are disadvantaged and so it does not amount to discrimination under the Charter. In any event, in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption from the operation of sections 13, 42, 49, 50, 59, 100 and 195 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 13 July 2014.
