EXEMPTION

Application No. A37/2012

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 89 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (the Act) by Melanie Santamaria (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to provide homoeopathic services only to women or children in the company of women and advertise those matters (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Melanie Santamaria, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 42, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant has undertaken training as a homoeopath. She intends to commence practice on a small scale and build that practice over time. At present, she anticipates having only a few clients to start with and so is unable to afford to hire premises from which to operate. She will provide a mobile service, visiting and treating clients at their homes. The applicant is concerned about her personal safety in visiting the homes of new and unknown potential clients and would prefer to be able to treat women only and children where the child's supervising/responsible adult is a woman. If in future the applicant's practice is sufficient to warrant her renting premises, she may not have any need to limit her services to women on the basis of personal safety.
- The applicant has informed the Tribunal that there are a total of 13 homoeopaths registered with the Australian Homoeopathic Association located in the suburbs surrounding her preferred area of practice. While the applicant is not aware whether any of those persons limit to whom they provide services, this information indicates that it is most likely that a number of practitioners are available to treat men in the areas in which the applicant intends to work.
- No exception or current exemption already applies to the exempt conduct and in the absence of an exemption the exempt conduct would amount to prohibited discrimination.
- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equality and in particular the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of men who would wish to seek homoeopathic services from the applicant. I am satisfied that, in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption from the operation of sections 42, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 11 April 2017.
