Victorian Environmental Assessment Council Act 2001

STATEWIDE ASSESSMENT OF PUBLIC LAND

Pursuant to section 15 of the Victorian Environmental Assessment Council Act 2001, the Minister for Environment and Climate Change requests the Victorian Environmental Assessment Council to carry out an investigation into public land in Victoria.

It is more than 25 years since the Land Conservation Council's 'Statewide Assessment of Public Land Use' was published and it is timely to consider revisiting aspects of that assessment in order to provide updated information for public land management.

The purpose of the investigation is to carry out a statewide assessment of public land in Victoria which considers the recommendations of the council and its predecessors (as accepted by government) and the system of public land use categories established as a result. The focus of the investigation is to provide information to assist management effectiveness and is not intended to change the current levels of protection underpinning Victoria's protected area system.

In particular, the council is requested to investigate and provide:

1. an assessment of the current system of public land use categories, including identification and evaluation of approaches adopted in other jurisdictions nationally and internationally, and consideration of options for changing or consolidating the existing categories to result in a system of categories that is simple and clear and that supports effective and efficient public land management;
2. an assessment of the current reservation status of public land, including areas where land use has changed since government accepted a recommendation; and
3. an inventory of the types of values on public land.

The council is requested to provide an interim report on the first term of reference that includes options for the consolidation of the existing public land categories by April 2015. To ensure there is an opportunity for public comment, the council is requested to publish information to assist in the making of submissions on this term of reference in the notice of investigation.

The council must prepare a discussion paper. A draft proposals paper is not required.

The council must report on the completed investigation by September 2016.

Water Act 1989BULK ENTITLEMENT (ANGLESEA GROUNDWATER) AMENDMENT ORDER 2014*Explanatory Note*Overview of the 2013 Bulk Entitlement Review

Barwon Water (BW) completed a review of the Bulk Entitlement (Anglesea Groundwater) Order 2009 (the Order) in 2013. The review included the following tasks:

- Updating the hydrogeological conceptualisation;
- Recalibrating the numerical model and running predictive scenarios;
- Based on the predicted hydrologic impacts, completing an impact assessment including an ecological risk assessment.

The review was a requirement of the Order which allows BW to extract groundwater from the Anglesea Borefield. The Order also required BW to implement a Monitoring and Assessment Program (MAP) which includes on-going groundwater, surface water, subsidence and ecological monitoring. The MAP was established in 2009 to address data gaps identified in the 2008 initial project impact assessment and has continued throughout the review period.

The review was informed by extensive data collected under the MAP. The review identified new areas that are most at risk of impact associated with groundwater extraction:

- Anglesea Swamp: The potential for drawdown, flow impacts and acid generation resulted in potential ecological impacts being identified in this area.
- Saline Intrusion: Impact on groundwater quality due to additional groundwater movement from off-shore.
- Inter-aquifer Flow: Impacts on groundwater quality for Barwon Water and to the Alcoa Production Bores due to drawdown predicted in the Upper Eastern View Formation Aquifer.

The review also highlighted the following data gaps:

- Acid Generation: Risks associated with acid generation require further assessment, particularly by addressing the data gaps regarding the presence and distribution of acid sources and their relative contributions into the catchment.
- Groundwater Dependent Ecosystems: Continue to gather baseline data for potentially groundwater dependent ecosystems i.e. the Breakfast Creek tributary or Anglesea Swamplands. Although these areas may not have been identified as being most at risk of impact from groundwater extraction, baseline data is still important to establish baseline conditions because ecological values are high in these areas i.e. Pygmy Perch in the Breakfast Creek Tributary.

The review recommended reducing the monitoring focus in areas that are not groundwater dependent and are therefore ranked as having a low risk of impact from groundwater extraction. This includes the upper Anglesea pools and the Salt Creek pools, which were originally identified in the 2008 project impact assessment as being potentially groundwater dependent. The data collected since monitoring began under the MAP indicates that these pools are actually losing features and are not groundwater dependent. The numerical modelling completed during the review predicted negligible drawdowns in these areas.

In response to the recommendations of the review, BW applied to the Minister to amend the Order and the Monitoring and Assessment program.

Amendments to the OrderAmendment of clause 9 – Trigger levels

The review found the Upper Anglesea River pools and Salt Creek pools were not groundwater dependent and not at risk of impact. The existing triggers, which were originally designed to protect the Upper Anglesea River pool and Salt Creek pools, were recommended to be replaced with a new trigger to protect the groundwater dependent ecosystems in the Anglesea Swampland. Therefore BW applied to amend the existing triggers in clause 9 and replace them with a trigger level in the Anglesea Swampland area as detailed in Schedule 2.

The new trigger level has been established with the objective of maintaining groundwater levels in the perched water table (PWT) to within the likely range of natural variation. Doing so ensures that there is no significant drawdown recorded in the Anglesea Swamp PWT associated with pumping of the Anglesea Borefield. If the groundwater levels in the PWT are maintained within the likely range of natural variations, then groundwater extraction would not be causing adverse impacts to surface water flow, acid generation processes and the ecology.

The new trigger utilises groundwater levels recorded from the nested bores located in the upper Anglesea Swamp. The bores monitor the following aquifers:

- P8: Swamp PWT aquifer.
- P19: UEVF aquifer.
- P12: LEVF aquifer.

The basic trigger level approach is to:

1. Identify definitive drawdown in the UEVF associated with pumping from the LEVF; and,
2. Identify drawdown in the swamp PWT aquifer associated with pumping from the LEVF;
3. If drawdown occurs in the swamp PWT aquifer and it is associated with LEVF pumping rather than climate influences, then pumping from the borefield shall be reduced or ceased.

To account for climatic influences on the groundwater levels in the trigger bores, a relationship was established with groundwater levels in a background bore (P17) which is located in the Salt Creek Swampland outside of the predicted influence of pumping.

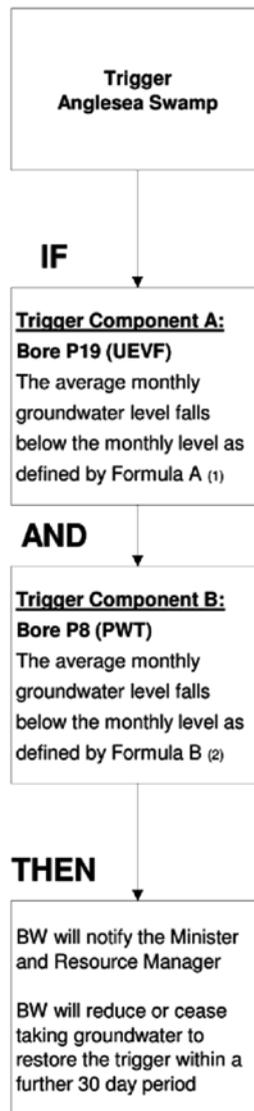

Amendment of clause 12 – Reviews

A review would have limited value if there was not additional drawdown information to recalibrate the numerical model. Drawdown information can only be obtained while the borefield is operating. Therefore the amendment requires BW to provide a report to the Minister on the results of a review at five yearly intervals from the date that groundwater extraction recommences or by the date specified where the review has been requested by the Minister or Resource Manager.

Amendment of clause 13 – Monitoring and Assessment Programs

The original 3-month time limit to revise the MAP following a review is removed, reflecting the integral link between amendments to the BE and MAP as a result of a review.

Notes:

- 1) Formula A: P19 trigger component (mRL) = $0.2391 \times P17(\text{Monthly average mRL}) - 16.8 - 2 \text{ SDs of error}$
- 2) Formula B: P8 trigger component (mRL) = $0.3131 \times P17(\text{Monthly average mRL}) + 9.4666 - 2 \text{ SDs of error}$
- 3) The standard deviations (SD) of error are calculated monthly until BW recommences pumping
- 4) The trigger is restored when either trigger component is restored
