EXEMPTION

Application No. H147/2017

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 89 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (the Act) by WellAware Pty Ltd (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to provide health and fitness services only to females and people whose gender identity is female (women) and advertise that matter (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Tani Gray, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from section 44, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant wishes to offer a health and fitness centre in Eltham, Victoria, to provide services to women only for those women who are unable to exercise with men for cultural or religious reasons or who prefer to undertake those activities in a women only setting. The centre will offer fitness and weight loss classes and relaxation and mindfulness sessions. Mothers will be able to attend with their young children. In support of the application, the applicant produced letters from community members, a local general practitioner and a local counsellor. They all support services which benefit community health and well-being.
- Relying on media discussions and articles about anecdotal experience, polls and research in Australia and overseas and her own experience, Ms Gray believes there is a need for such a centre in Eltham for a range of reasons including those mentioned above. The applicant noted that there are already 13 uni-sex gyms or fitness studios operating in Eltham plus numerous group personal training service providers. Accordingly, the applicant says a women only fitness centre will not impact on options for men or for women who prefer to exercise in a mixed gender setting.

- The applicant has not provided specific evidence to support a finding that the exempt conduct as described amounts to a special measure under the Act or falls within the special needs exception in section 88 of the Act. It may be that evidence of that kind will be available in the future. As no exception or current exemption already applies to the exempt conduct, in the absence of an exemption the exempt conduct would amount to prohibited discrimination.

- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equality and in particular the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of males and people whose gender identity is male who would wish to use the applicant's services. I am satisfied that in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption from the operation of sections 44, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 25 October 2022.
