INTERIM EXEMPTION
Application No. H142/2018

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 89 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (the Act) by Centacare Diocese of Ballarat (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander staff in the Koori Engagement Worker role within the applicant organisation (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Anthony George Fitzgerald, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an interim exemption from sections 16, 18, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct until the application is finally heard and determined.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The applicant has received funding from the Victorian Department of Justice and Regulation to employ a Koori Engagement Worker on an ongoing basis in the Victim Assistance Program in its Ballarat office.

- The Department of Justice and Regulation has identified the Grampians Region as a high needs area to develop links with Aboriginal organisations and strengthen partnerships with the mainstream service providers. The Department has requested as a priority action the recruitment of an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander staff member into the case management role.
- Pending the Tribunal's consideration of any such application if continued, it is appropriate to grant an interim exemption as otherwise the exempt conduct may amount to prohibited discrimination.
- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equality and in particular the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of persons who are not an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander who would wish to be employed by the applicant. I am satisfied that, in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an interim exemption from the operation of sections 16, 18, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from 27 June 2018 until 30 September 2018.

EXEMPTION

Application No. H147/2018

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 89 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (the Act) by AQA Victoria Ltd (AQA Qualcare) (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ a male disability support worker or a female disability support worker as the need arises in response to the requirements of particular client(s) (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Peter Trethewey and having regard to an earlier exemption which expired on 4 May 2018, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 16, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

The applicant delivers:

- Personal care and support to persons with physical disabilities and their carers in clients' homes and communities in Victoria. Such support may include assistance with dressing, hygiene, toileting and can extend to sleep overs in the clients' homes to provide assistance and emergency supports overnight.
- Support in community access to assist the clients to attend events and appointments, conduct chores and attend employment outside of the clients' homes.
- Planned and emergency respite for carers who live with a person with physical disability. This may include both personal care and support and community access as described above.

Services delivered by the applicant are predominantly, but not exclusively, delivered in the clients' homes.

The applicant frequently receives requests from clients for a carer of their own gender or a gender they feel more comfortable with in their home, therefore exercising individual preferences. The applicant has used the earlier exemptions to ensure that the service is flexible and tailored to the clients' lifestyles.

The exempt conduct does not meet the criteria in section 24 because not all services are provided in the clients' homes.

The exempt conduct does not meet the criteria of a special measure in section 12 because a client may request a carer of either gender, not based on any purpose related to promoting or achieving substantive equality, only on the basis of personal preference and feelings of comfort in close relationships and the home environment.

Previous exemptions have been granted to the applicant in similar terms. The current exemption expired on 4 May 2018. The circumstances and way the applicant works have not altered in any way since the grant of that exemption.

When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to consider relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equality and the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of males or females who would wish to be employed by the applicant. I am satisfied that, in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption from the operation of sections 16, 18, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force until 5 July 2023.

EXEMPTION

Application No. H157/2018

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 89 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (the Act) by Australian Youth Climate Coalition (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to advertise for and employ staff under the age of thirty (30) years (the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Miriam Beuthien and having regard to an earlier exemption which will expire on 27 June 2018, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an exemption from sections 16, 18, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt.

In granting this exemption the Tribunal noted:

- The Australian Youth Climate Coalition was founded in 2006 as a coalition of Australian youth organisations, to build a movement of young people working on the issue of climate change. It aims to educate, inspire network with and motivate young people to be a voice on the issue of climate change and to take local and national action. It is a non-profit company limited by guarantee. Its core funding requirements are largely met through grants and donations from philanthropic foundations.

- The purpose of the Australian Youth Climate Coalition is to achieve long term cultural change by engaging young volunteers to work with young people in universities, communities and schools and inspire them to act against climate change. A core component of the applicant's strategy is that of ensuring that the organisation is run by young people, who offer leadership and inspiration to other young people. It runs education and mentoring programmes in school, national summits and non-partisan election campaigns. It meets regularly with government Ministers, members of Parliament, business leaders and other organisations.
- Its focus on youth involvement is key to attracting funding and therefore its ongoing viability.
- Previous exemptions have been granted to the applicant in similar terms. The current exemption will expire on 27 June 2018. The circumstances and manner in which the applicant works have not altered in any way since the grant of that exemption.
- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to consider relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equality and the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of persons over thirty years who would wish to be employed by the applicant. I am satisfied that, in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an exemption from the operation of sections 16, 18, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force until 4 July 2023.

INTERIM EXEMPTION

Application No. H190/2018

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal has considered an application pursuant to section 89 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (the Act) by Wesley College Melbourne (the applicant). The application for exemption is to enable the applicant to:

- (a) advertise for students of a particular sex/gender identity to enter the school;
- (b) structure its waiting lists on the basis of sex/gender identity;
- (c) allocate student placements and offer enrolments to students of a particular sex/gender identity;
- (d) offer bursaries and scholarships to students of a particular sex/gender identity;
- (e) advertise these matters,
(the exempt conduct).

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavits of Helen Drennen and Caitlin Anstee and having had regard to an earlier exemption on similar terms granted by the Tribunal in 2013 which expired on 30 May 2018 (A52/2013), the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an interim exemption from sections 38, 44, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct until the application is finally heard and determined.

In granting this exemption, the Tribunal noted:

- Previous exemptions have been granted to the applicant in similar terms. I am not satisfied that an exception applies to the exempt conduct. Accordingly, in the absence of an exemption the exempt conduct would amount to prohibited discrimination.
- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equality and in particular the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination. I am satisfied that for the purposes of this interim exemption, the limit imposed by this exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an interim exemption from the operation of sections 38, 44, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the applicant to engage in the exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 3 October 2018.
