Electoral Act 2002

Section 17A

APPLICATION OF THE EQUAL OPPORTUNITY ACT 2010

Section 17A of the Electoral Act 2002 provides that (in accordance with section 75 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010) the Victorian Electoral Commission (VEC) may discriminate against a person in relation to offering employment (or appointment as a member of the Audit and Risk Committee of the Commission) on the basis of that person's political belief or activity.

The VEC is an independent and impartial statutory authority responsible for the conduct of Victorian Parliamentary elections, local council elections and other statutory, commercial and community elections. The VEC is also responsible for the maintenance of the Victorian register of electors, the promotion of public awareness on electoral matters, support of the Electoral Boundaries Commission, and administration of Victoria's political funding and donations disclosure rules. The VEC must ensure that all staff and contractors are, and are seen to be, politically neutral in the manner that they carry out their duties.

The following guidelines apply in relation to the implementation of section 17A of the Electoral Act 2002. These guidelines are issued and come into effect on the date this notice is published in the Government Gazette, and replace the guidelines issued on 10 November 2011:

When determining whether or not a person should be offered employment, or appointment as a member of the Audit and Risk Committee, the VEC will request and consider information pertaining to the following criteria:

1. nominating for election for, or holding an office of, the parliament of any State or Territory or the Commonwealth, or a local council, within the past 10 years;
2. current membership or membership within the past 5 years of any political party in any State or Territory or the Commonwealth;
3. activities within the past 5 years supporting or opposing a political party or candidate in an election for the parliament of any State or Territory or the Commonwealth;
4. activities within the past 5 years supporting or opposing a candidate in an election for a local council;
5. publicly engaging in activities supporting or opposing a political party or candidate's policy position currently before the electorate;
6. current membership or membership within the past 5 years of an advocacy or lobby group that publicly supports or opposes a policy position currently before the electorate.

The following factors are applied when assessing disclosures:

- a person who does not complete the form will not be employed or appointed;
- any activity consistent with criteria (1) or (2) will automatically exclude the person from a role with the VEC and employment or appointment will be refused;

- any activity consistent with criteria (3) to (6) will be considered in terms of the role being sought and its accountabilities, the nature of the activity and its potential to compromise the independence and impartiality of the VEC, and the time the activity took place. Employment or appointment may be refused on this basis; and
- where a person has not engaged in any activities consistent with criteria (1) to (6), the person will be eligible for employment or appointment.

Where the VEC has discriminated against a person in relation to offering employment or appointment as a member of the Audit and Risk Committee on the basis of the person's political belief or activity, and the person was refused employment or appointment, the person may request to have the decision reviewed within 28 days of being notified of the refusal. A review may be requested by lodging a written request to: Electoral Commissioner, Victorian Electoral Commission, Level 11, 530 Collins Street, Melbourne, Victoria 3000, or by sending an email to the Human Resources branch (marked for the attention of the Electoral Commissioner).

Express notice will be provided to applicants for employment (or appointment to the Audit and Risk Committee), alerting them that they may be adversely affected by these provisions. Example disclosures will be provided in this express notice and published on the VEC's website.

All disclosures will be kept private and handled in accordance with the VEC's Privacy Policy – a copy of which can be viewed at vec.vic.gov.au/privacy – and the VEC's recruitment procedures.

The VEC will report on the implementation of these provisions in its Annual Reports.
