INTERIM EXEMPTION

Application No. H319/2022

The Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal is considering an application pursuant to section 89 of the Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (the Act) by Women's Health in the North Inc. (the Applicant). The Applicant was previously granted an exemption on 21 September 2017. That exemption expired on 27 September 2022. That exemption enabled the Applicant to:

- employ only females and people whose gender identity is female (referred to as 'women') to work in the Applicant organisation;
- employ only women of a specified race or ethnic origin, or whose first language is a specified language other than English, to work in the Applicant organisation on specific projects targeted at groups of women of that race or ethnic origin or whose first language is that language;
- from time to time, provide services, including membership services, to women only; and
- advertise those matters (the interim exempt conduct).

The Tribunal grants an interim exemption to enable the Applicant to continue to undertake the conduct noted above while the current exemption application is considered and concluded. An initial interim exemption was granted on 6 October 2022 and was set to expire on 23 November 2022. The current exemption application is still being considered and a hearing is now set down for 24 January 2023. The Applicant has requested the Tribunal grant a further interim exemption to enable it to continue to undertake the interim exempt conduct while the current application is considered and concluded.

Upon reading the material filed in support of this application, including the affidavit of Susan Rosenhain, the Tribunal is satisfied that it is appropriate to grant an interim exemption from sections 16, 18, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the Applicant to engage in the interim exempt conduct while the current application is finally determined.

In granting this interim exemption, the Tribunal notes:

- The Applicant is a women's health service for the Northern Metropolitan region of Melbourne. Its mission is to eliminate gender inequalities and improve the health, safety and wellbeing of women and gender diverse people.
- The Applicant provides services including community and professional education, research and assessments, dissemination of information and advocacy. The Applicant provides programs which engage with specific needs in the community. The Applicant's priorities include programs addressing gendered violence prevention, family violence, sexual reproductive health, and gender equity, health and wellbeing.
- The Applicant was granted an exemption for similar conduct in 2009, 2012 and 2017.
- While I am satisfied that some of the services provided by the Applicant are special needs services under section 88 of the Act and the exception contained in section 28 of the Act applies in relation to staff positions tasked with the delivery of those special needs services, I am not satisfied that these exemptions apply to all the staff positions within the Applicant's organisation. In the absence of an interim exemption, aspects of the interim exempt conduct would amount to prohibited discrimination. Nevertheless, given the previous exemptions granted to the Applicant, the structure of the Applicant organisation, and the special needs services it provides, I am satisfied it is appropriate to allow the Applicant to continue to operate as it has been under the most recent exemption while the current exemption application is processed.

- When making decisions about exemptions, the Tribunal is required to give proper consideration to relevant human rights as set out in the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities Act 2006 (the Charter). Arguably, this exemption limits the right to equality and in particular the right to equal and effective protection against discrimination of people who do not identify as females and people whose gender identity is not female, who would wish to be employed by the Applicant or who would wish to receive services of the Applicant. I am satisfied that, in the circumstances discussed above, the limit imposed by this interim exemption is reasonable and justified under the Charter.

The Tribunal hereby grants an interim exemption from the operation of sections 16, 18, 107 and 182 of the Act to enable the Applicant to engage in the interim exempt conduct.

This exemption is to remain in force from the day on which notice of the exemption is published in the Government Gazette until 21 February 2023.
